Rest of the Wrecked Kearsarge Crew Brought Safely to Land.

SHIP'S FLAGS LEFT FLYING.

The Rescued Sailors to Sail from Colon for New York on Wednesday.

ON BOARD THE CITY OF PARA.

It Was Noon on Saturday When the Castaway Sailors Were Picked Up.

(By Associated Press.)

COLON, Feb. 12.—The crew of the wrecked United States cruiser Kearsarge was rescued at noon on Saturday.

Only one man was drowned. He was a second-class fireman named Anderson Robbins.

The good old warship was abandoned on Roncador Reef with the Stars and stripes still flying at her peak.

The steamship City of Para, with the crew of the Kearsarge on board, will have this port for New York on Wednesday next.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The Navy department has received advices from the press despatches announcing the arrival of the steamship City of Para at Colon with the crew of the wrecked United States cruiser Kearsarge.

A cable despatch from Colon, via Havana, conveying the above information, was received at the office of the Panama Railroad Company in New York this morning.

The despatch, which is of even date, reads as follows:

"City of Para arrived. All safe." The message was sent by Col. A. L. Rives, General Superintendent of the Panama Railroad Company at Colon. He is the father of Amelle Rives, the novelist, and has been on the isthmus for the past six years.

There is nothing now to prevent the City of Para from sailing for New York on schedule time, which is next Wednesday, the 14th inst. It usually takes her from six and one-half to seven days to come up, which should bring her into port the following Tuesday or Wednesday.

VATICAN RUMOR REVIVED.

That Ledochowski Will Resign as Prefect of the Propaganda.

(By Associated Press.)

ROME, Feb. 12.—The report is again revived that Cardinal Ledochowski is contemplating resigning his office as Prefect of the Congregation of the Propaganda Fide.

There are several rumors in circulation in regard to the cause of Cardinal Ledochowski's contemplated action, but the most generally believed version of the affair is that Cardinal Ledochowski disagrees with Cardinal Rampolla, the Papal Secretary of State, in regard to the Papal policy towards France.

It is also asserted, Cardinal Ledochowski does not agree with Cardinal Rampolla on the subject of the attitude of the Vatican towards Mr. Satoli. Cardinal Ledochowski is said to be the declared enemy of Mr. Satoli.

Queensdown Police Fail to Drag Off a Pavana Passenger.

(By Associated Press.)

QUEENSTOWN, Feb. 12.—While the steamship Pavana, Capt. Watt, bound for Boston, was here on Saturday, she was boarded by officers who had instructions to arrest a man in company with a lady, who had eluded the police while the steamer was in the harbor.

The man refused to accompany the policemen and clasped tightly the iron fixtures of the gangway.

Meanwhile the Pavana was steaming slowly seaward, with the tender fast alongside of her. Eventually the captain of the tender insisted upon casting off, and the police were obliged to leave the Pavana without their prisoner, amid the jeers of the passengers.

Lords' Amendments to Employers' Liability Bill Coming Up.

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The House of Commons resumed to-day. The attendance was small and was chiefly composed of the Scotch members, as the Sea Fisheries bill was the only Government order on the notice paper.

Mr. Gladstone and Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, were present, and were loudly cheered upon entering the House.

The amendments of the House of Lords to the Employers' Liability bill will be considered to-morrow.

Minister Terrell Gets His Men Free.

(By Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 12.—United States Minister Alexander W. Terrell, after taking a vigorous stand in the matter and threatening to ask the United States Government to send one or more warships to Iskanderum, Northern Syria, has succeeded in obtaining the release of one of two Armenians, naturalized Americans, who have been imprisoned there for some time past.

ALBANY, Feb. 12.—The special Senate committee to investigate frauds in the recent elections, and which consists of Republican Senators Mullin, Penrose, Kilgore and Kilgore, and Democratic Senators Thayer and Tamm, will probably take about a week there and then go to Buffalo.

NEWS OF THE STAGE WORLD.

Miss Clemmons Uses Ice as an Advertising Medium.

Something in a Name, as One Actress Found Out.

Miss Katharine Clemmons is a daring young woman. She has adopted methods of advertisement that the experienced stars and leading ladies would regard superstitiously as suggestive of coming evil.

On Saturday night portraits of the beautiful Katharine—who as a preliminary to her appearance at the Fifth Avenue has dropped the e from her baptismal name—were exhibited on scintillant boards in the middle of huge blocks of ice.

The blocks had been chopped in two and from their centre the face of the coming star peered coldly. It was picturesque, but most unfortunate, and the Rialto people gazed at the odd advertisements in awe. Said one actor:

"If Miss Clemmons is going to make a front there is no need of her advising us of her intentions beforehand." Another remarked: "She is chilling her audiences before they enter the theatre," and a third ventured to opine that the ice had horribly mortuary suggestions. Miss Clemmons is certainly being oddly managed. The little paragraphs that are circulated to fascinate the masses are strangely unympathetic in their character. The name of the author of "The Lady of Venice," by the bye, is not noted at all. He is ashamed of the play, or does Miss Clemmons begrudge him the honor of a brief mention in her blocks of ice?

There was once a young feminine star even more audacious than Miss Clemmons. She dared to star under the name of Frost. Managers objected, and she was hard to get, but Frost was determined to be. Her turn was not at all a success, and she was a clever actress, and pleasing to look at. In desperation she had to change her name. Of course, there is nothing in the superstitions, but theatrical people like to be on the right side.

"Eleanor Duse," says Dr. Schiller, "has just been decorated by the Duke of Saxe-Weimar. The Duke of Saxe-Weimar are German princes who love and protect art, and who have done so since the time they created a special order for people belonging to art and science. They like to give this order. It saves cash. I would give a good deal if I could have seen Duse's face when she got the order. She has a stanch Republican mind. She hates tyrants, whether they sit on thrones or in armchairs. She tolerates only one tyranny, that is her own. I do not think there is any danger of her wearing the Saxonian order of art and science instead of her necklace, in the character of Marguerite Gautier."

The matinee girls at the Metropolitan Opera-house have become desperate. They take their ramp stools with them. A number of dancers, thus laden, attended the performance of "Hercules and Omphale" last night, and sat through the long intervals with a stolid, apparently happy. According to one of the ushers, the bench parties are not unusual, and boxes, bearing unmistakably the names of bakeries and luncheon parlors, are frequently found.

There is nothing now to prevent the City of Para from sailing for New York on schedule time, which is next Wednesday, the 14th inst. It usually takes her from six and one-half to seven days to come up, which should bring her into port the following Tuesday or Wednesday.

A Criticism on the Individual Work of Harvard's Crew.

Comment on the Pawning of Medals by Athletes.

Yale was first on the water with her crew this season, but Harvard will not be long in following suit. It is announced at Cambridge that from now on the crew will be found on the Charles whenever the weather permits. Since they have taken to the tank there has been some good improvement in the work of the Crimson oarsmen. Raggedness in time and blade work is the most noticeable fault. This criticism is made of the individual work of the first section:

"The rowers, bow, fore and back, are in the best of the crew. No. 1, is stiff, goes back too far, does not reach enough, cocks his oar and rushes the slide; Murchie, No. 3, is slow all through the stroke; Derby, No. 4, has a jerky recovery, and falls to pieces on the finish; Duffield, No. 5, hunches his oar and is late in striking the water; Potter, No. 6, reaches with his shoulders and goes back too far; Fennessy, No. 7, (stroke last year), falls over at full reach; Hallard, stroke, gets too much body reach and goes back too far to recover; Capt. Davis and Houghton, promising men, are rowing in the second section. The rest of the crew are not so good. The question of coaches is just now reaching, goes back too far, and reaches with his shoulders. Houghton, No. 3, has his arm at right angles to the oar, and is late in striking the water. No. 4, is slow enough to catch and slumps at the finish.

The Yale crew is at present made up generally as follows: Stroke, Dater; No. 7, Fennessy; No. 6, Rogers; No. 5, Cross; No. 4, Longacre; No. 3, Measer; No. 2, Holcomb; bow, Capt. Johnson. The question of coaches is just now reaching, goes back too far, and reaches with his shoulders. Houghton, No. 3, has his arm at right angles to the oar, and is late in striking the water. No. 4, is slow enough to catch and slumps at the finish.

The ribbon suggestion is a good one, theoretically, but it is doubted if it would work in practice, for the simple reason that many athletes would not compete. There is an A. A. U. law which says that any athlete who pawns his medal shall be suspended. It is a notorious fact that medals are pawned, but to prove it would be difficult. Still, it would probably create some consternation in the amateur ranks should the A. A. U. call on all athletes to show their medals.

READ TO THE DELEGATES.

"The Evening World's" Millionaires' Income Story Amused Them.

"The Evening World's" story telling of the incomes of the millionaires was read at the Central Labor Federation meeting yesterday. The delegates listened with amazement when the startling statistics were laid before them. After an interesting discussion, the subject of the delegates to the Conference for the Relief of the Unemployed was instructed to move that after the meeting the delegates to the Conference for the Relief of the Unemployed be asked to subscribe to the Central Labor Federation, the official organ of the American Federation of Labor, and to read the Corresponding Secretary's report to the delegates to the Conference for the Relief of the Unemployed. The C. L. F. has its own organ, The People.

LABOR MONSTER PETITION.

It Will Be Taken to Workshops and Tenements for Signatures.

The Executive Committee of the Conference for the Relief of the Unemployed held a special meeting at 25 Deception street yesterday, making arrangements for the monster petition which is to be sent to the Legislature, asking that the ground roads, docks and wharves, bathing establishments, schools, &c., be built to give work to the unemployed.

Eight men will go through tenement houses and workshops every day this week, and the petition will be taken to all labor organizations.

CAR CONDUCTOR STABBED.

He Got in a Row with Three Men, Who Are Held.

A fight occurred on a Second avenue car last night, in which Conductor Daniel Levy, of 242 East One Hundred and Third street, was stabbed in the chest by three men who were riding on the car. The car was stopped at 100th street, and the three men were taken to the police station. They are now being held on charges of assault.
